I have learned from experience, that losing a father is one of life's most difficult things. Know that his influence is obvious in the steps you take each day. I know your father was proud of you. I extend my deepest condolences to you and your family

Regardless of Nationality or Gender we all have one thing in common and that is an expiration date. I too have learned from experience twice, that we do not lose loved one's but lose their present. Don't forget to watch them flourish in us daily, weekly, monthly, and yearly. Next time you are talking with love ones listen to yourself and you will always hear your Father speaking in and through YOU! Condolence from the Wilson's family Losing a parent is never easy. Take comfort in knowing that his pain is gone, that he is now at peace. And, you will see him again. You are a great person, and you made him proud. If you ever need to talk, you know how to reach me.

Patrick - It has been so nice to learn more about your father and the amazing person he is. I think this quote says it all "death leaves a heartache that no one can heal but love leaves a memory that no one can steal." ~Jake Care,

Patrick,

Grief is like an earthquake. The first one hits you and the world falls apart. Even after you put the world together again, there are aftershocks, and you never really know when those will come.

Know that is why you have friends to help you and your family walk through the sadness and remember all the joy you experienced with your father.
