As an '83 J-school alum, my years at KGOU gave me confidence as well as experience on the air. For the final act of my broadcasting career, I chose to come back to KGOU in 2005 to help generate funding for great journalism. Here's to many more years in broadcast, and whatever comes next!

Congratulations KGOU on 50 wonderful years of service to the community! I'm not only an employee but a fan of the station and have been since the early '90's. I've learned so much from being a listener to this station. I consider it my continuing education. I've also worked with many staff members dedicated to public service. Thanks for everything!

Oh the Days of KGOU! Lessons, laughs and memories of working

I worked as News Director at KGOU between 2004 and 2008.
I was pretty young when they hired me, and probably in slightly over my head, but they trusted in my abilities and gave me a lot of freedom to experiment and find my voice. I definitely had a lot of opportunities I wouldn't have had if I had started out at a larger station in a larger city. I'm thrilled to see how much the station has grown in the years since I left, and I'm excited for its next 50 years!

As a true lifetime KGOU listener, I'm so excited for this special 50th anniversary. From listening to Whad'ya Know as a child on Saturday mornings to listening to NPR news throughout the week as an adult and jamming with "Hardluck" Jim Johnson on The Weekend Blues, KGOU has been a huge source of entertainment and education throughout my life. I'm a proud monthly supporter as well as a host, and I can't wait to see what's next for KGOU. Congrats, and don't go nowhere!

Michael B, host of Tonic: The Funky Groove Show

My career journey in broadcasting began at KGOU on a Saturday morning in September 1974 as a host of the High School Football Scoreboard Show. Tim Stephenson and I "inherited" the show that day from Bill Jackson and Stan Chase. By the time it was over, we were hooked. We made great friends, learned a lot and established the foundation for our life's work in journalism. It's been a great ride (and still going) thanks to the opportunity we received at KGOU. And, it's great to be back.

Happy 50th, KGOU!
